Key to an introduction to animals is the distinction between vertebrate and invertebrate animals. Vertebrate animals are those that have an internal backbone such as humans, cats and dogs. An invertebrate is any animal that doesn't have an internal backbone. These include animals such as insects, spiders, jellyfish, crabs and even sea anemones.

Beginning with the definition of animals, this VSI goes on to show the high-level groupings of animals (phyla) and new views on their evolutionary relationships based on molecular data, together with an overview of the biology of each group of animals. This phylogenetic view is central to zoology today. The animal world is immensely diverse, and our understanding of it has been greatly enhanced by analysis of DNA and the study of evolution and development.
