In City of Thorns, Rawlence interweaves the stories of nine individuals to show what life is like in the camp and to sketch the wider political forces that keep the refugees trapped there. Rawlence combines intimate storytelling with broad socio-political investigative journalism, doing for Dadaab what Katherinee Boo's Behind the Beautiful Forevers did for the Mumbai slums.

City of Thorns: Nine Lives in the World's Largest Refugee ...

The world's largest refugee camp is a city built of mud and thorns in northern Kenya. City of Thorns narrates the lives of nine men and women--of different nationalities, cultures, and religions--out of the half million residents of the camp. Despite its engaging narrative style, this wasn't a book I could read through in one sitting.

Situated hundreds of miles from any other settlement, deep within the inhospitable desert of northern Kenya where only thorn bushes grow, Dadaab is a city like no other. Its buildings are made from mud, sticks or plastic, its entire economy is grey, and its citizens survive on rations and luck. Over the course of four years, Ben Rawlence became a first-hand witness to a strange and desperate ...
